

Here is the little story behind, the president Mr. Maruyama wanted to build a warm bus shelter.

President Maruyama's little story behind of the bus shelter to be built in front of Niigata Manufacturing Facility.

Before renovation of the manufacturing facility, it was a cold day around January 2017. I saw a school girl waiting for a bus at the bus stop in front of the office building.

I was taking photos of the whole building from the other side of the road. However, the high school girl saw me pointing a camera directed to herself, and it seemed that she misunderstood me as a nasty old man who was taking a photo of her.

Then, she took out her cell phone and took a photo of myself...

On the way home to Nagano, recalling such an episode...

I decided to build a warm bus waiting room, and it has been a year since then...It has been completed finally... It's cool in summer... and warm waiting space in winter...

I do not know whether the high school girl from that day is still taking a bus to her school or not...

President Jiro Maruyama

Open finally! With fully air conditioning
(Free access to the 50-yen vending machine)

